

Highlights

- Return-aware masking restricts selection to resource-feasible return actions.
- Pointer learners reached similar final coverage with PPO and A2C updates.
- Fixed-slot PPO had substantially lower coverage on synthetic and DSM maps.
- Traditional planners improved coverage but required longer online planning.
- Return-reserve removal caused the largest and most consistent ablation loss.